Happy 30th Birthday Matthew! As time passes, your spiritual presence grows stronger and surrounds us with an unfathomable strength that overshadows the human experience. You are our angel more powerful than the limited dimension of the mortal existence. We are so grateful to you - a gift to us that is never ending[∞] We love you!

To the man who took Matthew from us:Yom Kippur is the moment in Jewish time when we dedicate our mind, body, and soul to reconciliation with God, our fellow human beings, and ourselves. We are commanded to turn to those whom we have wronged first, acknowledging our sins and the pain we might have caused.

At the same time, we must be willing to forgive and to let go of certain offenses and the feelings of resentment they provoked in us. On this journey we are both seekers and givers of pardon. Only then can we turn to God and ask for forgiveness: "And for all these, God of forgiveness, forgive us, pardon us, and grant us atonement."Pollow/Pavlov/Duane

Hi Matthew, we are all thinking of you as Rosh Hashanah approaches on September 13, 2015. We are so heartbroken that you are not physically with us during this time. We miss you so much and achingly want you back. We are stuck in our traumatic grief of the way you were taken from us. We just cannot accept our devastating loss of you and live everyday of our lives in excruciating pain that we cannot seem to overcome. Our lives have been shattered due to the manner you were taken and we don't think we will ever be able to accept what happened to you. You are in are thoughts and prayers every moment of every day. We hope you are in the here after with your grandpa, John M. Duane, who contributed to the establishment of Palm Beach County since 1952, and your dad, Ronald Pollow a tax attorney who helped many citizens of Palm Beach County with their legal matters since 1981. We know you had plans to eventually follow in their footsteps with your Bachelor's Degree in Business. We are so sorry you never got that opportunity. We love you forever, Matt.

Matthew, Our lives are like a vapor, here for a while and then gone. Our highest tribute to you on this day is not our grief, but our gratitude to you. Our deep sadness of losing you is measured by the happiness you were in our lives. You were so innocently vulnerable, and passed unknowing how. Your forever loving family,

Happy Birthday Matthew! We understand where you are is timeless. For us, you remain in an existence we only know. On March 23, 1986, we received an incredible gift, so grand no one could ever take away from us. We will never let go of you in our horizons. Although it is difficult today to see beyond our sorrows, we remember you and it comforts our tomorrow. Our celebration of your life is love not wanted to let go, and realize earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal. We are doing what we can, with what we have, and where we are. Forever, your loving family

I'm so terribly sorry for your loss. Cannot believe our people are more concerned with a foreign jet than the suffering and tragedy occurring right here. What's wrong with society??? It's a travesty, it's so much easier to take the precious life of a suffering human than it is to take a deep breathe and to pray.....the deputy did not; he reacted out of a selfish, untrained and ignorant reaction. He thought of only himself. Mental illness is by far the most deadly illness our society faces. Because unless you are the one suffering there's not a person out there that understands/nor do they try to. It's much easier to play the innocent bystanders/family members. I'm so sorry for your loss. I pray you embrace the times Matthew you made you proud.
