My oldest sister taught me the importance of working hard; I recall when I was very young helping her clean houses and she always demanded you do the job to perfection so she made me clean a sliding glass door like a half dozen times and I was pretty sure that I did a great job after the owners very large dog came running through the house and went to run outside, thinking the door was open the dog crashed into the glass and sent the dog flying backwards, I was like the dog couldn't see the glass it was soooo clean! We both got a laugh out of that! Love you Sandra may you eternally rest in peace!
