In her earlier years Barbara was a Legal Secretary for a prominent lawyer in Southampton, NY followed by a real estate stint in Tampa, Florida before becoming sole proprietor of The Tropical Inn, a wine & beer establishment in Lantana, Florida where she also lived for over 30 years.

While she enjoyed playing golf and watching sports she was a well-known for her philanthropy in her community and her love of pets, which she always adopted through the ASPCA. Although rarely asked for help for herself she was always first to help those in need, especially by initiating fundraisers for donations and enlisting help from others for others. Noted on her list of civic contributions through her establishment she would offer free turkey dinners for patrons with no family on the Thanksgiving holiday, which sometimes landed on her birthday. She was active in the Florida Fraternal Order of Eagles, American Legion, and especially the VFW. A memorial service will be held in the future and donations for the ASPCA and VFW Post #5335 in her name would be appreciated.
